

Aiken County Public Schools will be taking part in the Business, Innovation & Technology Expo on July 17 between 10:00 a.m. -4:00 p.m. at the USC-Aiken Convocation Center. This event is sponsored by the Celebrate Aiken committee and the Lower Savannah 'OneStop' Workforce System. School district career specialists will be operating the career exploration booth and performing informal career assessments.

"The most important part of the EXPO is how the exhibits and demonstrations will highlight the business and industry in our area. The education representatives from Aiken County Public Schools, Aiken Technical College, and USCA will highlight the pathways that connect education to these businesses and industries," states Debbie Hubbard, CATE coordinator at Aiken County Career and Technology Center.

Brooks Smith, Aiken County Career and Technology Center director, and Debbie Hubbard will be working in the expo information booth throughout the event. There will be over 40 business and industry leaders doing presentations and providing examples of how technology is incorporated into business.

The Aiken High robotics team, National Guard, Orbital Welder and many more groups will be performing demonstrations. Attendees will have the opportunity to explore all areas of employment in career fields such as medicine, military, science, education, business, media and more.

What a great way to bring in a new school year! Anyone interested in a future in business or technology, please join us to see how the two areas co-exist to meet the demands of today's world. For more information, please contact Debbie Hubbard at 803.593.7300 or visit www.celebrateaiken.com
