

The National High School Drill Team Championship

More than 125 schools and over 4,000 cadets from all services met on 1 May, 2011 thru 3 May, 2011 to compete at the National High School Drill Team Championship, the world's finest Drill & Ceremony competition. The Wagener-Salley High JROTC Drill Team has competed in this competition for the last two years. The Drill Team's performance this year was absolutely remarkable. During the very competitive masters level Dual Exhibition with Arms consisting of 80 teams, cadets Purvis Blizzard and Austin Bodie placed 2nd in the nation. Cadets Dillon Overton and Chase Ray placed 5th in the nation just behind cadet's blizzard and Bodie. The Wagener-Salley High School Drill Team was the only team to have both Dual Exhibition teams reaching the final field of 12 teams. The Platoon Exhibition team with Arms finished a respectable 8th overall in the country competing at the Challenge level. Great Job! "Go War Eagles"
